EXCLUSION POLICY
NOT INTENDED AS
AFFRONT TO JAPANSecret'y Hughes Stands
Squarely Behind Congress In His Courteous
Reply To Jap Protest.

A RIGHT TO LIMIT

Washington, June 19 (INS).—Although Secretary of State Hughes, by his not replying to the Japanese Exclusion protest, released the Japanese Government from the "Gentlemen's agreement" with respect to the control of immigration, it still remained today for Japan to decide whether or not the agreement is to be abrogated.

Hughes went into considerable detail in support of his position that the oriental exclusion provision in the new immigration bill was not much different than the regulations now in force between the two governments to keep out an influx of orientals.

He explained however that it had been the desire of President Coolidge, as made known several times, to continue to regulate immigration through diplomatic channels rather than by Congressional enactment, adding that the law, having been duly enacted, must be enforced.

Flat denial was made that the immigration law, as alleged by the Japanese Government, violated any of the provisions of the Commercial Treaty of 1911 between the United States and Japan.

The Hughes note, made public today in Washington and Tokyo, was friendly in tone and emphasized that no affront to Japan was intended by the Exclusion law.

It was problematical today whether the Japanese Government would elect to formally accept the release from the "Gentlemen's agreement," or whether that pact would be permitted to remain in force in the hope that it could again be used as a basis for the regulation of immigration from the orient.

This question will be cleared up in future correspondence between Masanoh Hanihara, the Japanese Ambassador, and Secretary Hughes.

EVERY DOG HIS DAY;
EVERY DOG MUST PAY

Penrose S. Boyer, of Altoona, one of the "weiner hounds" of the present state administration, who holds his job despite his patronym, while agreeing that every dog should have his day even in Clearfield county, is now engaged in making that day mighty short for the unlicensed canine, but, the face of Fido's owner is long enough in each case to make up for it, when Penrose S. gets through with both him and the dog.

Boyer's mission into Clearfield county is to see that every dog in the county pays an income tax—the state gets the income—for the right to pursue the uneven tenor of his way as a careless cat or two. He is making Clearfield his headquarters and radiates to every section from here. He is assisted in his dog rodeo by ex-Constable Sunderland of Fourth Ward. Dog owners who have thus far failed to get a license for their dog are haled before Squire Chorpensing and assessed the customary $5 fine and costs, $8.50 in all, in addition to the regular dog tax. If they want to escape the tax now and hereafter Fido must be summarily dispatched.

More than 25 Woodland dog owners were impounded for a day by Boyer, an equal number from Curwensville developed hydrophobia symptoms; 40 or more from Grampian barked their disgust while "coughing up" as stated, and a clean-up of the Surveyor-Karthauss country put the $8.50 muzzle on as many more, leaving three or four more sections to be visited.

Clearfield is on the schedule for Friday and from surface or street indications at least a couple hundred "hot" dog owners ought to be rounded up here when the late "big boss's" namesake goes into action as per schedule.

W. A. Brand of DuBois was business visitor in Clearfield yesterday.

STAY-AT-HOME ROTES
HAVE QUIET MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Clearfield Rotary Club held at the Hotel Jordan was a particularly exclusive and quiet affair. Exclusively in that it was limited in attendance to but about half the membership as the other half excused to Toronto Sunday last. This exclusiveness also had much to do with the quiet that reigned, especially during the stowing away of the soup, which fact was apparent to and appreciated by the management, as was plain to be seen when regular portions of the consommé were given each diner instead of the spoonful or two allowed by Jordy when he had all the absent soup garglers to contend with. The general make up, quality of the viands, together with the service, were also very much improved over what is grudgingly doled out when Jordy has his thumb on and in things about his "beanery," and it was the general expression that the international convention at Toronto was a good thing and should last much longer than it will.

President Gurney presided at the meeting and all but four of the stay-at-home members were at the meeting. The speaker of the evening, a friend of Rube Nevling, was Prof. Norman C. Hill, of St. Louis, head of Uncle Sam's chemical experts at Indian Head proving grounds during the world war, where all the navy's guns and powders were proved or tested before being put into service.

Prof. Hill chose to talk on smokeless powder, that being a popular subject in view of the recent unaccounted-for powder explosion of accident aboard the U. S. S. Mississippi. He gave a learned, highly interesting and instructive talk in which he defined the difference between black and smokeless powder, describing the constituent parts of each and the manner of their manufacture, while also giving the reason for the far greater power or force of the smokeless over the common and old-fashioned black powder.

He said the chief difference between the two powders was that the black powder detonated or exploded suddenly.

WAR AND HELL BOTH
FOR RHODE ISLAND'S
WARRING SENATORS

Providence, R. I., June 19. (INS).—Senator Arthur Sherman, Republican floor leader, and Senator Harry A. Sanderson, were removed to the Rhode-Island state hospital today in a serious condition, suffering from the effects of what is believed to be chlorine gas. Papers saturated with the gas were discovered beneath the chair of Lieut. Gov. Felix A. Toupin.

The timely discovery of the gas-saturated papers prevented additional casualties among the worried members of the senate and the crowd that jammed the senate chamber. The fumes became so strong that it was impossible to remain in the chamber and the Republicans agreed to an hour's recess in order to clear the room of the gas fumes.

The papers are being held in the governor's office pending chemical analysis. The filibuster is now entering its third day.

Providence, R. I., June 19. (INS).—An attempt to break the Democratic senate filibuster, now entered upon its third day, was frustrated today by the timely discovery of a can of chlorine gas beneath the chair of Lieut. Gov. Felix A. Toupin. As presiding officer of the senate, Lieut. Gov. Toupin is the one man who dares not sleep. If he succumbs to weariness the Republicans would immediately take over control of the body. Four senators were overcome before the obnoxious chemical was discovered. The monotony of the dragging session was relieved by a fist fight in an anteroom between Senator Robert Quinn, Dem., and Jack La Tendre, Republican, in which the latter was knocked to the floor.

Deputy sheriffs and police continued to guard the chamber in an effort to preserve order.

"Hell an' Maria"

Character study of General Charles G. Dawes, selected running mate for President Coolidge, after a hectic finale to the vice presidential race at the Republican convention.

Capital Knows Dawes
In Endless Stories
Of Human Interest

By DONALD EWING
Washington, June 15.—In Washington one hears many little heart-interest stories of Charles G. Dawes that are, perhaps, absolutely unknown in his own home town.

Cabinet officials and coonkeepers—all of whom know the Republican vice presidential nominee as "Charley"—have been going each other one better in relating intimate details acquired through association with him on numerous occasions when Washington was the Dawes residence. Not the old "Hell and Maria," the reparations settlement, or the time he swore vehemently at a major general in France, but—

Helps Old Pal.
When "Charley" Dawes was director of the budget with a big office here, a newspaper man wandered in one day for an interview. Hardly a word from Dawes until, in casual conversation, the reporter remarked that "Billy" is time. Then he learned that September 6. "You see, Mrs. Dawes always gets so spirited on the anniversary that I like to be with her," he told an associate once. "And—I guess I can't quite forget, either."

Of course, the story of the Rufus Fearing Dawes dime hotel on Chicago's Westside is well known. Named for his son, it is, and a down-and-out can get food and lodging for a dime—or for nothing, if that's all he has. Dawes finances it but few know that he finances another hotel for Waterville, Me., June 18.—Half a million dollars figured in the settlement of the divorce of Mary Clark Kling, of New York and Charles P. Kling, of Augusta. Kling received $580,000 under the settlement. Witnesses testified Kling was often absent from home and on several occasions abused his wife. Mrs. Kling is the daughter of former United States Senator William A. Clark, Montana "Copper King." Kling was not present at the trial.

Then, September 6 of a certain year a friend dropped into Dawes' office for a business talk.

"Sorry I can't see you today," said Dawes. "I'm just straightening out some emergency matters, then I'm going home. I never do business on September 6."

Down And Out's Friend
The friend never knew for a long time the anniversary of the drowning in Lake Geneva, Wis., of Dawes' only son—Rufus Fearing Dawes. That was in 1912.

SHOOK HANDS WITH
DEATH A COUPLE OF
TIMES IN LONG FALL

Dayton, O., June 19 (INS).—Lieutenant John A. MacReady shook hands with death late last night and got away with it.

He was piloting an air service ship from Columbus to Dayton and when directly over the center of Dayton heading for McCook field his motor cut off and began a long slide to the edge of the city. When he reached an open space he stepped off and from his lofty perch in the parachute saw the airplane go hurtling to the ground, heard the crash and saw the big explosion which occurred when the gas tank let go.

MacReady continued to drop easily toward the ground and landed on the brink of a ravine. He stumbled in the darkness and began falling. The parachute caught in a tree and there MacReady hung. He yelled for help and some men living nearby cut him down.

MacReady was up five thousand feet when the motor cut off and 2500 feet when he stepped off into space.

The plane crashed in a field near a cemetery just east of the city. It was a total wreck.

Had the plane fallen in the city the chances are there would have been a terrible disaster.

The ship is a big De Havilland and was in regular service on the airways.

One Man Killed And Two
Injured In Gambler's War

Chicago, June 19. (INS).—One man was killed, two others were seriously injured and several persons narrowly escaped injury here today when a bomb was exploded in a restaurant conducted by Patrick O'Malley, Democratic leader, just outside the loop district.

The explosion rocked the building and created a panic in the Polk street station nearby.

A gambler's war is believed by police to have been responsible for the bombing.

The dead man was George Swan, an employee. He was blown into the street by the force of the blast and died while being taken to a hospital.

The injured are: Richard Richardson, and George Martin, employees.

COUNTY DETECTIVE
DYNAMITE VICTIM

New Castle, Pa., June 19. (INS).—The home of County Detective J. M. Dunlap was dynamited here early today, the blast wrecking the rear end of the house. Dunlap, his wife, and their three-year-old son were sleeping in a front room, and were uninjured.

Two adjoining houses were also damaged, and numerous windows broken in the neighborhood. Police believe the explosion was set off by dry law violators prosecuted by Dunlap.

American Murdered
By Chinese Bandits

Shanghai, June 19. (INS).—A radiogram from the British gunboat Cockchafer today confirmed that E. C. Hawley, an American business man, has been murdered by Chinese at Wanshien, province of Sze-Chwan. Hawley's body is on board the gunboat.

Hawley was killed by Chinese junk men who were agitating against steamboats using the river at Wanshien.

GREAT, GREAT, GRANDAD
OF LINCOLN HAD SLAVES

Reading, Pa., June 19 (INS).—Records recently brought to life here show that Mordca Lincoln, great-grandfather of Abraham Lincoln, owned slaves when he lived in Exeter near here.

In 1790 he had two slaves, Will and John, which Berks county court archives show were valued at 131 pounds, 13 shillings. There is still standing a small stone outkitchen at the Lincoln homestead at Exeter which is believed to have served as the slaves' quarters.

Girl Inmate Started
Fire In Which 24 Died

Los Angeles, June 18.—Because she wanted the girl inmates of the Hope development school at Playa Del Rey, near here, to be free, so "they could have a good time like other girls," one of the inmates, 14 years old, set fire to the building May 31, which resulted in the loss of 24 lives.

This announcement was made by District Attorney Asa Keyes today. The girl was a former inmate of the home, a school for subnormal children and came to the office voluntarily with the announcement that she "had some thing to say," Keyes said.

"Her name is Josephine Bertholme and she now is an inmate of the juvenile hall here," Keyes said.

The girl said she touched a match to a pile of kindling wood in the basement, Keyes announced.

"I didn't like the school and I decided to burn it down so all the girls could go home," the girl's statement read, it was announced. "I didn't mean to kill anybody. I just wanted all the girls to be free so they could have a good time like other girls."

DETROIT MINISTER
FINDS WAYWARD SON

Laporte, Ind., June 19. (INS).—Rev. George Ristaro, of Detroit, found his son here today—under sentence to serve 10 to 20 years in the state penitentiary following conviction of robberies in Gary. George Jr., who is 17, was believed by his father to be attending school in Chicago.

William Strasser, said to be a member of a wealthy Detroit family also was sentenced with Ristaro.

The Detroit clergyman who came here when he heard his son was in trouble, said he would appeal to Gov. Branch for clemency. His son, he said, was being educated for the ministry.

STILLMAN CASE ECHO
ASSAILS PUBLIC EAR

White Plains, N. Y., June 18 (INS).—James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, is paying Mrs. Anne U. Stillman $7,500 a month alimony, it was revealed today in a court action filed in connection with the famous Stillman divorce suit.

Mrs. Stillman asked that the husband be directed to pay her $20,000 counsel fees to combat his appeal from a recent decision of the court of appeals in effect denying Stillman a divorce and establishing the legitimacy of Guy Stillman, her youngest child.

Stillman's counsel opposed the motion, declaring that the wife should be able to pay her attorneys from the $7,500 monthly alimony he said the former banker was paying her.

Justice Morschauer reserved decision.

NATIONAL OFFICERS
IN CHARGE IN W. VA.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 19. (INS).—In an official circular, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today announced that the autonomy of district No. 17, West Virginia, had been suspended, and that charge of the district's affairs had been assumed by the international union.

Strikes are now in effect in West Virginia, where operators failed to accept the Jacksonville wage agreement. Lewis' manifesto said, and added that those strikes would be prosecuted until settlements are reached on the Jacksonville basis.

The declaration of policy in the official statement was regarded at headquarters of the union as being notice that no wage reductions will be permitted anywhere.

Morgantown, W. Va., June 19. (INS).—Several hundred shots were fired near here early today in a gun battle between striking coal miners and mine guards. There were no casualties.

Approximately 300 miners are on strike. Rumors of trouble have been rife in the miners' camp for several days, but it has not been definitely determined what precipitated today's fighting.

BATTLE STEAMS UP

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

New York, June 19.—The preliminary skirmishing and feinting that always precedes a real political convention gave way today to the deadly seriousness of give-and-take fight for delegates as the principal features of Democratic party poured into New York for next week's historical battle in the Garden.

Argument over the two thirds rule, the unit rule and kindred matters was relegated to second place about the crowded hotel lobbies. The two leading contenders—William U. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith—were in personal charge of their respective camps and directing the count of noses.

There are approximately 250 delegates in the convention whose course is uncertain after the complimentary balloting is out of the way and it is toward these delegates that both the McAdoo and Smith camps are casting covetous eyes.

As a result of missionary work already accomplished the Smith forces raised their estimate today of the strength the Governor will poll within the first half dozen ballots.

They now figure in excess of 400 delegates will be in the Smith column by the fifth ballot. Where to get the 332 more necessary to make two thirds is a tough problem.

The Smith position, however, is but little harder than that confronting the McAdoo managers. Assured of approximately 450 votes on early ballots, with possible accessions up to 800 on succeeding ballots, the anti-McAdoo forces are inclined to ask where Mr. McAdoo is going from there. They answer their own question by asserting "nowhere."

"Mr. McAdoo will be nominated by the tenth ballot, if not before," asserted Colonel Thomas B. Love, of Tampa, one of the McAdoo managers. He did not explain, however, where the delegates are to be found.

"There will be no nominee on the tenth ballot and probably for a good while thereafter," said George E. Brennan, the Illinois "Boss," with a certain grim smile that betokened confidence in his own arithmetic.

Virtually all of the leaders on the McAdoo tent were inclined to agree with the pudgy Chicago leader. They frankly look to see the forty-four ballots at San Francisco and the 46 at Baltimore outstripped in the garden next week.

Brennan furthermore allowed it would be a "long convention" and in this, too, he found himself in agreement with most of those not attached to the McAdoo standard.

Meanwhile the Underwood managers are laying back and saying but little except that after McAdoo and Smith have finished their gory work of "murdering" each other the convention will have to go some place and they are hopeful it will be toward Alabama.

PLEASANT WEATHER HEADING OUR WAY SAYS FORECASTER

We Have Entered First
Stretch of "Back To Normalcy" As To the Weather.

ICEBERGS BLAMED

By ROLAND KREBS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1924, International News Service.)
Washington, June 18.—If every one will just sit tight and be patient, we soon will be enjoying pleasant, normal weather all over the United States.

The promise came today from Chas. L. Mitchell, United States weather forecaster, when asked if the present unusual conditions presaged permanent new habits on the part of the weather, with perhaps a mix up of the seasons.

From all observations, Mitchell said the worst of the atmospheric anarchy is over, unless unexpected phenomena hobnob on the United States may be considered right now as having entered the first stretch of the return to normal weather.

"Is there anything singular about the weather we have been having?" Mitchell was asked. "If there is, what is the cause?"

"The United States has been experiencing very uncommon weather he explained. "East of the Rocky Mountains the spring and summer temperatures were unseasonably low and there were heavy rains. Crops as a result were from two to three weeks late. West of the Rocky Mountains it was warmer than customary with an absence of rain.

"That still is true in the southwest. Temperatures of 100 have been reported nearly every day from southwest Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and other southern and western areas."

The cool and wet weather, Mitchell explained, may be traced directly to the iceberg zone around New Foundland and the Grand Banks.

Ordinarily, he continued, ice bergs start south in early spring and chill the Atlantic waters. But, for reasons as yet undetermined, the ice bergs decided to spend this season at home.

"Two coast guard cutters making observations for us" said the forecaster, "reported a notable absence of bergs. Because of this, the temperature of the water was several degrees above normal. That brought about a corresponding warmth in the air."

From this you have the incongruity of New Foundland enjoying warm pleasant weather while the United States, farther south is chilly. The relationship is simple. Warm air and low atmospheric pressure go together. Consequently, the pressure about New Foundland is low just now.

"When the pressure is low the air currents that swirl about it move in a direction opposite to that followed by the hands of a clock. Therefore, they have been bringing cold air down from the north west in a big circular sweep that would go, for example, from Montana down as far as Tennessee.

"Were the pressure high, the currents would be moving clockwise. Then warm air from the southeast would be swept up into that territory now feeling the breath of the northwest."

"The northwest-to-southeast sweep has permitted a series of rain-storms that otherwise would be heeded up in the extreme northwest to roam around over the north and central United States. That is, it has permitted disturbances which cause these showers to come farther south."

MILK BECOMES POPULAR AS AMERICAN BEVERAGE

Chicago, June 18. (INS.)—America is becoming a nation of milk drinkers. A survey just completed by the National Association of Ice Industries shows that consumption of fluid milk and cream has had a phenomenal rise.

"This is disclosed in reports of Boards of Health in all cities and towns," the association declares. "It is also confirmed by latest statistics of the Federal Department of Agriculture, which show that the average consumption in farm and city homes last year was fifty-three gallons, compared with fifty gallons the year before and forty-nine gallons in 1921. Last year the average daily consumption for each person was 1.16 pints."

"Surveys have shown carelessness in handling milk in many households. Milk is frequently left standing in a warm room or placed in a window box. Hence bacteria quickly multiply a thousand fold. Milk should be kept clean and cool. Old milk and new should be kept separate. Spoiled, unclean milk means sick babies and children."

"Increased consumption of milk not only means prosperity for the dairy farmer, but proves that the nation generally is awakening to the value of milk in the everyday diet."

MANY WANT TO BE PENN STATE FRESHMEN

State College, Pa., June 19.—Applications for admission to the next freshman class at the Pennsylvania State College are pouring in at the office of the college registrar now that most of the high schools of the state have had their graduations. The class next year has been limited to 1000, and the bulk of the admissions will be made beginning about July 1 when it is felt that all applications will be in the hands of the registrar.

Regardless of the time at which an application for admission is filed, each will receive full and equal consideration, according to the college registrar W. S. Hoffman. When there are more applicants than can be accommodated in a particular course, the scholastic record of the applicant will determine the admission. Applicants who stood in the upper one-third of their high school classes will be admitted first; then the middle third, and if there is room for more students in the courses, other promising

THIS WOMAN RELIEVED FROM SUFFERING

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good for me. I had cramps and very bad pains. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I felt. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all I do in summer, but in winter I work in a factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Some one has discovered that 147 years ago the town of Worcester, Mass., had a firm of "Dawes & Coolidge, Grocers," and the claim is made that it was a direct ancestor of the present Dawes, and at least an indirect ancestor of the present Coolidge, who stepped in 1924 as a partnership destined to be reaffirmed in 1924.

The unseasonal weather of the present spring has started the tongues of "weather makers" to wagging the country over as never before, and every last one of them has a different explanation to give for it. One old fellow, a learned scientist, who has been "star gazing" for many years and holds a whole sheaf of degrees from our colleges, solemnly asserts that the sun has split in two, and we happen to be riding along in the crack between the two heavenly heat producers; hence the extreme chilliness.

Prof. Henry J. Cox of the United States Weather Bureau at Chicago said that the sun is the cause of the weather. He said that the sun is the cause of the weather. He said that the sun is the cause of the weather.

It's a series of "smoke screens" on the sun, Prof. Cox hints—in other words, sun spots. These spots, in reality enormous swirling storms of gas and flames, cast up a haze which obscures the sun's rays and thus lowers radiation.

"These spot disturbances follow a cycle and reach a crest at a stated interval, usually about 11 years," said Prof. Cox. "Though some parts of the sun are actually hotter during this period, radiation is lowered and bad weather may conceivably result."

First, Prof. Cox insisted that the sun is the cause of the weather. He said that the sun is the cause of the weather. He said that the sun is the cause of the weather.

It has been proved to the satisfaction of scientists that the sun's radiation at present is lower than normal. The Smithsonian Institution reports from its two observation stations, one in Chile and one in Arizona, that the present radiation is from 1 to 3 per cent under par.

"This has occurred for several months past and is not unusual. It does not mean that the sun is 'cooling off." Solar radiation progresses in a regular rhythmic cycle, reaching climax every 11 years. At present, we are in the middle of one of the periods of depression.

About everything is wrong in this old world of ours, in fact there is nothing much right but ourselves. For instance, nobody has a lot of money except those fellows who don't need it or never spend any. Those who have whiskey now have too darn much while those who want some can't get any. This was demonstrated at the Cleveland convention when, one of the New York reporters said, the crowd cheered Andy Mellon for ten minutes and he was called to the stage that they might get a glimpse of the man who owned more whiskey than any other man in the world.

That is not all, by a long shot. One of those upsetting things which show the "universal" uneven trend occurred right here in Clearfield yesterday afternoon. Right over on Turnpike avenue to be exact, if you are after detail. It happened this way. One of our young men, who "has a way with wimmin," picked up a "new flame" the other day, and appeared to be so much smitten with the new love and devoted so much time to her that he was forced to turn a more or less chilly shoulder to an old, tried and true friend. As a result, the new flame was cast aside for the old flame. The old flame, who was a "real" girl, was the one who was "in" with the young man. The new flame, who was a "fake" girl, was the one who was "out" with the young man. The old flame, who was a "real" girl, was the one who was "in" with the young man. The new flame, who was a "fake" girl, was the one who was "out" with the young man.

Well it ended with the second lady hopping into the car with the newest flame and when the fellow attempted to dislodge her, the late, love-sick dandy drew a bottle of lye from her pocket and crying that she would end it all by a draft of the fiery liquid, attempted to make good her threat. But a blow from the gentleman's arm knocked the bottle from her hand and the contents scattered over car and occupants. Hell, hath no fury like a woman scorned, they don't change

your motor's diet

There is a big difference in gasoline

No CARBURETOR was ever made which can automatically adapt its "digestion" to diets so varying as are found in gasoline.

Why isn't it a good idea for the motorist to leave his fuel problem in the hands of a responsible organization whose very success has been built upon long, conscientious service to the public?

Why ever buy anything but Atlantic? There is never a question about its being right. No motor fuel more completely combines all the qualities it must have to meet all of the conditions under which it must operate.

Atlantic is made for automobiles as built to-day; to meet modern traffic conditions, and to fit the climate and temperature of the territory in which it is sold. You can buy Atlantic on the Fourth of July or on the 1st of January with the definite assurance that each season's product is correctly suited to that season's requirements.

"COMMERCIAL CRIME"

There seems to be a commercial crime wave, too. That is, crimes committed primarily against merchants and bankers, by wrongful use of business methods.

The district attorney of New York says that the nation is defrauded of perhaps $1,750,000,000 a year by persons obtaining property or money by false financial statements, false proofs of loss to insurance companies and false statements in connection with the sale of spurious securities.

This immense loss, though most of it may be incurred directly by business men, is nevertheless passed around to everybody. It results in lower dividends, higher rates for insurance, higher rent, higher prices for services and commodities. It comes out of the pockets of the entire public. The entire public, therefore, has an interest in stopping such crime just as much as it has in stopping bank robberies and house burglaries.

The rate of convictions for such offenses, however, is very low, because they are usually involved in business technicalities and a mass of figures, so that juries become confused. It is harder to make a normal citizen feel the criminality of a purely financial transaction than of a crime of violence, although the effect may be equally bad.

There is need, therefore, of more careful and systematic prosecution of such cases. The National Association of Credit Men is performing a valuable service in laying plans and seeking a fund for the systematic prosecution of commercial crimes.

SPLEEN REMOVAL

Now the surgeons are after the spleen. Dr. William J. Mayo suggests that removal of that organ may become more common than removal of the appendix. "The chronically enlarged spleen," he explains, "must be regarded as a menace, and it rests with the physician to show why it should not be removed."

The spleen's job, or at least one of its jobs, is to act as scavenger of the blood stream, destroying deteriorated blood cells. When it grows too large, it seems to become unduly enthusiastic about its work and goes ahead destroying blood cells, bad and good alike, with such zest that it decimates the red corpuscles, producing a chronic anemia which may cause death.

"Out with the spleen!" may be a good surgical slogan, but where is this sort of thing to end? A layman wonders whether, when this troublesome organ is out, any of the remaining organs can substitute for it satisfactorily.

The doctors are certainly getting to be very free with human organs and glands, anyhow, amputating them and inserting them and moving them about in a way that must be rather alarming to Mother Nature. In another generation or two, they may have worked out a complete system of standard human parts, kept in storage at all hospitals, for making any necessary physical repairs or, indeed, assembling an entirely new body on the flimsy plan.

Progress Editorials for Women

NOT THE ONLY JUGGLER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

Found, the greatest woman juggler in the world.
A New York reviewer claims that she is in New York City performing remarkable feats at the Hippodrome. She is Elly, a handsome young girl who has mastered the ancient art of doing many things at the same time, with her two strong firm delicate hands.

Elly explains why women jugglers are rare.
"Women," says Elly, "have not cultivated the habits of concentration. Juggling is not a matter of strength. The requirements most necessary are concentration, mental, muscular and nervous concentration, upon the feats attempted."

Whereupon, Elly points out that because women have never learned this difficult feat, women jugglers are few.

But Elly evidently never stayed in the kitchen while her mother served up a meal.
Talk about concentration upon three or four things at once. Why, no oriental wonder worker ever did a feat of keeping seven plates whirling in the air at the same moment, faster than Elly's mother (or perhaps it was her aunt who happened to be the perfect housekeeper in the family) used to do when she served a four-course dinner at the appointed hour, with all the things hot, all the cold things cold and all the last minute things done, at the right time.

When it comes to concentration on many things at once, no juggler has much on every day, garden variety of cook, while the average American wife and homemaker has a good many miles of lead of any platform performer ever head-lined on the program.

Perhaps you know one of these jugglers when three or four of you went out to see her the other Sunday afternoon she met you at the gate radiant and smiling. She whisked you through her garden to see the flowers she had planted and tended, strolled with apparent leisure across the street to the home of a friend, where there were other gardens, came home again with the assurance and leisure of a woman who had seven servants to attend to the evening meal, disappeared a few minutes, but before you had missed her, opened the dining room doors, where the spiced ham was smoking on the table and the salad was icy cold and crisp, and the coffee was steaming and fragrant, and all with apparent ease.

"Oh its easy," she exclaims "with daughter's help."

But these same daughters have been taught French and piano by the same juggler who strolls in the garden and whisks supper on the table seemingly at the same time. And with all this, there's time for books and a little bridge and chickens, and some sewing, and even the lowly family wash has been known on more than one occasion to disappear into a sea of suds only to emerge white and snowy on a back-yard line, under those same strong competent juggling hands.

"But," you say, "she's unusual." Not so very. Thousands of American women do it every week of their lives and forget to think it a miracle.

And yet Elly thinks she's the world's only juggler. But she's all wrong. She may be clever enough at spinning tops and balancing on her chin, and we take off our hats to her deft hands and steady nerves. But we make just a little lower bow to the efficient American mothers who can't afford help, and who keep both hands and brains moving swiftly to meet the problems of every day living. There comes a time when they are no mere jugglers, but approach the realm of sleight of hand. At least they seem to defy the old axiom that one body can not be in two places at once.

ly, creating all its force behind the projectile in a shell instantly, whereas the smokeless powder was slow burning and therefore developed its force gradually hence its power to throw the shell farther and so much more accurately. To illustrate his point Prof. Hill placed a small portion of black powder on a plate and touched a match to it. The powder flashed, with a piercing detonation. He then lighted a strip of smokeless powder which he held in his hand, and while it burned fiercely he was able to blow it out at will. In closing his extremely interesting talk Prof. Hill apologized for the loud detonation of his black powder and had President Gurney confess he added to that feature of the demonstration by the firing of a blank cartridge at the psychological moment.

President Smith announced that the Rotary and Commercial Clubs would meet in joint session at the Hotel Dimeling on Thursday evening, June 26th, to hear Supt. J. K. Johnston, of the Penna. R. R. Co.

The president also announced that the Fourth of July float committee had decided, with the sanction of the Legion parade committee, that instead of putting a float in the big parade on the 4th, they would have cars ready and take the children from the Children's Home to the parade and festivities, and the following committee was appointed to look after that business: A. W. Lee, Jr., F. M. Ellis, Lex R. Brown, A. G. Bartholomew, F. B. Leavy, Sam Powell, and C. A. Hile. Guests present last evening were Ben Sheeder and Joseph Knapper, Jr., with W. P. MAINS—CONKLIN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Conklin was the scene of a very beautiful wedding on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, when their youngest daughter, Isabel A. Conklin, became the bride of Jesse W. Conklin, brother of the bride, as best man.

The bridal party stood in the center of the parlor under a floral bell of snow balls. William L. Armstrong, the bride's pastor, officiated and used the beautiful ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The bride was adorned in a gown of white voile, carrying a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor was attired in a lavender voile, wearing a corsage of sweet peas and daisies. Both were crowned with chaplets of white daisies. The groom and best man wore the regulation dress.

Dainty and satisfying refreshments were served after which they left in their automobile, accompanied by the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Reddinger, of Philadelphia, Pa., for their honeymoon trip to Williamsport, Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's mother at 612 N. W. Front street. Well wishes attend them on their journey.

Rev. B. H. Conley and family have been on a vacation trip this week ending in the eastern part of the state.

A considerable number of dog owners in Curwensville are now more reluctant with dog law than they were a week ago. One day this week a stevedore visited town and learned that a number of the canine population had not been licensed or are a tag. Tuesday and Wednesday he 30 or 40 men and women went to Curwensville and looked over a lot of $5 and $10, in all amounting about $8.50. Constable Irvin Moore is among the number who "coughed" the required amount of kake that a dog might have freedom.

down-and-out girls. The same kind of proposition. It's called the Mary Gates Dances Hotel. Mary Gates Dances was "Charley's" mother.

And then, a few years ago an im-provident newspaper man who had been acquainted with Daves for years, dropped in for a social chat one day. He happened to remark that he was opening a newspaper work—going to open a publicity agency. Nothing more was said about that until the reporter started to leave.

"If You Need More"

"By the way," casually remarked Daves, "when a man goes into a new field he generally needs backing, and when he's honest and sincere, he deserves it. Maybe you don't need it, but I just told the cashier to advance you $500 on my security, and if you need more it's there for you."

And, speaking of money, when Daves opened the Central Trust Company, in 1902, the first day's deposits totaled $5,000,000, a fortune in those days, and the trust imposed is a tribute to the man's magnetism and standing with his fellow men.

Mr. Daves, also is well known in Washington through frequent residence here. Officials never get tired of telling of the day she broke up an important conference between Daves and high Government officers. She rushed right into the meeting and laid a package on the table.

Brings Charley's Rubbers

"Charley," she said, "it's raining, and I just know you forgot your rubbers again, so I dropped in a store and bought a pair, and here they are. Now don't you move out of this building without putting them on!" It is not recorded whether the instructions were followed.

Daves—if the Coolidge-Daves ticket goes over—will be no newcomer to the White House when he visits there. He was that closer to President McKinley than any man in Washington when he was McKinley's comptroller of the currency. He and Mrs. Daves were in the White House almost daily for social, or business calls. And as director of the budget under Harding, he became an intimate of that President. Every doorkeeper at the White House knows Daves, and he knows most of them by their first names.

Rail Service Emerges As Issue Of Campaign

Each-Cummins Act Blamed by Those Who Link Troubles of Farmers with Railroads

By H. K. REYNOLDS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 19.—Once the smoke of the national conventions has cleared away, the nation's transportation problem will emerge as one of the issues of the Presidential campaign.

One of the main angles of the problem is the question of freight rates, the farmers and their political representatives declaring that one of the reasons for agricultural distress is the high cost of transportation.

The Each-Cummins Act is blamed chiefly by those who link the troubles of the farmers with the railroad situation. In the first session of the 68th Congress efforts were made by the Republican insurgents, supported by the Democrats, to amend the Each-Cummins Act by abolishing the United States Railroad Labor Board and establishing—or re-establishing—the old plan of voluntary arbitration of railroad labor disputes.

The bill to accomplish this was introduced jointly by Senator Robert B. Howell (R.), of Nebraska, and Representative Allen W. Barkley (D.), of Kentucky. The insurgents in both the Senate and the House managed to get the bill away from the hostile Committee on Interstate Commerce, but consideration of it came to a prompt and spectacular close in the last week of the session when Barkley withdrew the bill and denounced the House for its attitude toward the legislation. Senator Howell's bill in the Senate had the support of Senator Robert M. La Follette, the insurgent Republican leader, but it was impossible to get it considered or anywhere near a vote.

As this railroad bill will be discussed throughout the summer and will be one of the first things brought up in Congress this winter, Senator Howell, at the request of International News Service, has written the following explanation of the provisions of the measure:

Laws Provisions Explained
"This bill provides that it shall be the duty of all carriers and their employees to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning employment and to settle all disputes arising out of such agreement. There are two kinds of disputes:

"1. Respecting rate of pay and working conditions. These may be called 'primary disputes.'

"2. Arising out of application of such agreements. These are 'secondary disputes' and may be called 'grievances.'

"For the settling of grievances it is provided that they shall be taken up first in conference between the management and the employees. If an agreement be not arrived at, the grievance may be referred to the local adjustment board provided for in the agreement between the railroad and the employees.

"Suppose that there was a failure of the conference. Then the dispute could be appealed to by a national board of adjustment of fourteen members, seven of whom would represent the railroads and seven the employees. When this board makes a finding, that finding legally binds both parties and thus ends the dispute.

Meditation Is Last Resort

"Should the adjustment board fail to agree because of a tie vote, then the board of conciliation and mediation, composed of five members appointed by the President, steps in and attempts to adjust the matter. If necessary, it urges arbitration by the board consisting of three members—one to be appointed by the railroad, one by the employees and the third by the two so chosen. Should they fail to decide upon the third party, then the board of conciliation and mediation names the umpire.

"A decision of an arbitration board is final and binding. As in the case of a decision of a national board of adjustment, the decision is made a matter of court record with all the force of a court decision.

"In the matter of primary disputes the same course is pursued with this exception: That the next step after conference is mediation, and if unsuccessful then arbitration, the boards of adjustment having nothing whatever to do with the primary disputes."

Youthful Bandits Get Haul At Detroit

Detroit, June 19 (INS).—Three youthful bandits held up the Albert Salter jewelry store here today, forced the proprietor to lie face down on the floor, scooped diamonds and watches into a bag and made their escape in a waiting automobile. Their loot was estimated at $10,000.

BIDS FOR FALLS CREEK ROAD

Harrisburg, Pa., June 17.—Forty-two bids for the construction of 15 projects were opened today by officials of the department of highways. Low bidders included: Jefferson and Clearfield county, Sandy and Washington townships, 35,260 feet, Henry W. Horst Company, Rock Island, Ill., $424,007.

The above contract is the stretch of highway between Falls Creek and Brookwayville by the way of Harvey Run. The price is regarded as quite reasonable, and there is a very good possibility that the contract will be awarded.

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED IN WRECK

Submarines Crash Under Sea; None Hurt

Washington, June 18 (INS).—The submarines S-33 and S-35, collided while making a submerged sectional attack during battle maneuvers off San Diego, late yesterday, according to a dispatch received at the Navy Department. No personnel injury resulted. The S-35 sustained slight damage to her hull, which is being repaired by the fleet's submarine tender.

La Follette Stands Pat On Former Letter

Washington, June 19. (INS).—Robert M. La Follette, Jr., today formally denied that his father, Senator La Follette, had communicated in any way with the Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention at St. Paul, since his letter of May 26 to Attorney General E. A. Tamm.

Reports that Senator La Follette had again advised the convention that he did not want its support, were undenied, his son said, declaring that the senator still stood on his letter of last month denouncing the convention because of its communistic influence.

Stone Age Copper Mine in Canada.
A copper mine that was worked by miners of the Stone Age has been found on an island near Fort Arthur, Ontario. The shafts or pits were 20 to 30 feet deep in the solid rock, and the tools which evidently were used were black, egg-shaped stones of great hardness.—Compressed Air Magazine

Information For Income Tax Payers

As numerous corporations are requesting blanks for filing Federal Capital Stock Tax returns for period ending June 30, 1925, the following information has been given out by Collector D. B. Heiner.

Capital Stock Tax returns for the period ending June 30, 1925, are due to be filed during the month of July 1924. Forms 707 and 708 for filing return for the above period under Section 700 of the Revenue Act of 1924, have been revised and it is anticipated that the blanks will be ready for distribution to the taxpayer on or before July 10, 1924. Regulations relating to the administration of capital stock tax are also being revised to conform with the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1924. However, no material changes will be made in the new regulations, and taxpayers may be governed by Regulations 64, until current regulations are available.

As revised Forms 707 will not be ready for distribution in sufficient time to enable corporations, limited partnerships, etc., to file returns during the month of July, 1924, this office has been authorized by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to accept returns without the assertion of penalties for delinquency, if filed on or before September 30, 1924.

Revised Forms 707 will be mailed to every corporation, limited partnership, or association, of which we have record, as soon as

Curwensville's Own Column

Yesterday despite the gloomy weather and high wind quite a crowd assembled at Oak Hill cemetery to take part and witness the Memorial services over the dead by Curwensville Lodge No. 486, Knights of Pythias. Some fifty or perhaps moreorthy Knights were in line as the procession ascended the hill leading to the city of the dead. Arriving at the cemetery, a deceased member of the lodge was followed by a male choir, followed by a preliminary ceremony, then a prayer by the Prelate of the lodge, an appropriate solo by D. Doverspike. Then came the ritualistic services which lasted about a half hour, and then a song by the male chorus. Rev. J. Peters, of Glen Richey was introduced who made an eloquent appropriate address, which was related not only by the Knights but by all who were present. As a hard proposition for him to with any degree of satisfaction, high and strong wind which was blowing at the time, carrying his voice to his audience. His discourse the way through was one that long be remembered; his language being clear and not over the head of the youngest. At the close of the service the male choir again sang an appropriate and closing song, after which the crowd dispersed, many returning to their homes and others remaining to wander through the cemetery. Had the day been the kind of weather it ought to have been there would have been at least a thousand people present to witness the impressive ceremonies of the Knights of Pythias.

Miss Jeanette Weber, accompanied by her friend, Mr. Harry Franklin, arrived in Curwensville Saturday from Youngstown, Ohio. Miss Weber will remain the balance of the week with her aunt, Miss Lottie Bixler.

Mrs. William Norris died in Philadelphia last Friday night. Her remains will be brought to Curwensville for burial, the funeral to be held from the home of C. O. Norris on Tuesday. Her age was about 68 years, her husband passed away some years ago.

Mrs. Hannah E. Bloom, wife of W. H. Bloom died at Warren, Pa., last Friday evening, aged about 42 years. She was a daughter of Bishop Bloom, this place. Her body was brought to Curwensville today and will be buried in Oak Hill cemetery on Thursday from the Baptist Church, Rev. F. T. Fineout, officiating.

Another severe rain and wind storm passed over this place Saturday night doing a great amount of damage to street and personal property. A crowd of men worked all day Sunday endeavoring to make streets passable. Some of the country roads cannot be used at all until the rocks, logs, etc., are removed.

Mrs. Thomas A. Dearborn and daughter of Manchester, N. H. are visiting at the home of A. Z. Wolf, Sr., her father.

Mr. Joseph Riddle and wife, of Summerville, Ohio, are guests of Mr. S. E. Deering. This worthy couple were burned out root and branch two weeks ago, and lost all of their earthly possessions. They will remain in Curwensville for several months.

The song service at the M. E. church Sunday evening proved to be one of great pleasure for the large assembled congregation. The singing of Mrs. R. R. Kohr, of Harrisburg, a contralto, was something out of the ordinary which Curwensville musicians do not often have a chance to hear and she was listened to with great delight. The large choir also rendered a special program of music. Sunday evening service at the Presbyterian church consisted of a patriotic program at which time a subject of vital importance was presented. There is no borough ordinance against the "fireworks" of a patriotic sermon, the subject of which was "Guarding Against Destruction". The people who attended the Baptist sanctuary Sunday evening certainly had their curiosity satisfied as to that "surprise". It was a platform assemblage, and proved to be an interesting session.

Reputed Landing Place of Ark
The desert of Carthage, in Cyrene, nearly 10,000 feet above sea, contains as many as sixty hills of varying sizes. According to tradition these were left at the foot of the flood. When the waters subsided, it is said, Noah and his family landed on the Bay de Frigue, on the coast of the district. The hills prove the truth of the tradition; the travelers are shown an iron ring which the peasants declare the ark was moored when the landing effected.

The Order of the Bath.
No matter how humble the Japanese laborer may be, he regards his evening bath as a sacred duty and as the greatest luxury of the day. By the time the head of the family is home from his labors his wife has the tub and the water ready. In goes the little man first, then his wife, then the children in order of age. Afterwards the family, clad in clean garments, are ready for supper.

Horse and Horse.

WHAT MAKES A BRICKLAYER

A bricklayer is about the crankiest individual we know of, and we can prove this statement by any bricklayer's wife. No matter how hot a bricklayer is, his dinner is a good thing to look at, and he will eat it with observations due to a little incident that happened this morning. Lafe Lutzer who is laying brick on the new Progress building, after a hard morning's work was ready to "fight or eat" and when he went to his car to get his dinner pail and it wasn't there he was more ready to fight than to eat. A good dinner at Barrett's restaurant, however, and Lafe had his old time smile.

OUR GIRLS RESOURCEFUL

Clearfield Misses can always be counted on to do the right thing at the right time so that is how a peach happened to serve peach sundaes on Sunday. Yesterday evening a bevy of young ladies happened into one of the popular soda emporiums of town. The place was filled, everybody was hungry and thirsty. Did they sit down and wait? Not all of them. One jumped right up, grabbed an apron and in jig time was taking orders and making deliveries. Her only fear was that it might get into The Progress. Unfortunately one of the "news hounds" was hanging around there at about that time and as he had been served before the inexperienced soda slinger began to compound the orders he lives to tell the story. Ouch!

Will young Casey share that bottle of Orange-Crush with three thirsty kids? Say—they haven't a chance! Try a bottle today, icy cold, and you'll know why!

Here are six reasons why the real Orange-Crush is so utterly delicious:
(1) The natural fruit of oranges; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (orange, lemon, and lime); (3) Orange juice; (4) Pure carbonated water; (5) U. S. Certified food color; (6) Pure cane sugar. That's all, My.

Gathering Poison.
As many as 20,000 serpents had to be captured by a single explorer in order to obtain enough venom of this species to make a proper analysis of the poison. Similarly, the examination of bee poison means the capture of 200,000 bees and the isolation of their venomous stings.

For the difference they make—select your glasses with care

"WHY, I hardly knew you" is as usual as comments on the weather. But it strikes a big truth! Spectacles and eye-glasses do make a difference in appearance. Whether the change is for good or ill depends upon their agreement with face, costume and occasion.

But the formula for being attractively fitted is quite simple. Ask us about spectacles and eye-glasses for wear at business, at sports and in the evening. Besides good style and comfort, you will thus get absolute accuracy in manufacture, and scientific precision that cannot be challenged.

EXCLUSION POLICY
NOT INTENDED AS
AFFRONT TO JAPANSecret'y Hughes Stands
Squarely Behind Congress In His Courteous
Reply To Jap Protest.

A RIGHT TO LIMIT

Washington, June 19 (INS).—Although Secretary of State Hughes, by his not replying to the Japanese Exclusion protest, released the Japanese Government from the "Gentlemen's agreement" with respect to the control of immigration, it still remained today for Japan to decide whether or not the agreement is to be abrogated.

Hughes went into considerable detail in support of his position that the oriental exclusion provision in the new immigration bill was not much different than the regulations now in force between the two governments to keep out an influx of orientals.

He explained however that it had been the desire of President Coolidge, as made known several times, to continue to regulate immigration through diplomatic channels rather than by Congressional enactment, adding that the law, having been duly enacted, must be enforced.

Flat denial was made that the immigration law, as alleged by the Japanese Government, violated any of the provisions of the Commercial Treaty of 1911 between the United States and Japan.

The Hughes note, made public today in Washington and Tokyo, was friendly in tone and emphasized that no affront to Japan was intended by the Exclusion law.

It was problematical today whether the Japanese Government would elect to formally accept the release from the "Gentlemen's agreement," or whether that pact would be permitted to remain in force in the hope that it could again be used as a basis for the regulation of immigration from the orient.

This question will be cleared up in future correspondence between Masahiro Hanihara, the Japanese Ambassador, and Secretary Hughes.

EVERY DOG HIS DAY;
EVERY DOG MUST PAY

Penrose S. Boyer, of Altoona, one of the "weiner hounds" of the present state administration, who holds his job despite his patronym, while agreeing that every dog should have his day even in Clearfield county, is now engaged in making that day mighty short for the unlicensed canine, but, the face of Fido's owner is long enough in each case to make up for it, when Penrose S. gets through with both him and the dog.

Boyer's mission into Clearfield county is to see that every dog in the county pays an income tax—the state gets the income—for the right to pursue the uneven tenor of his way as a careless cat or two. He is making Clearfield his headquarters and radiates to every section from here. He is assisted in his dog rodeo by ex-Constable Sunderland of Fourth Ward. Dog owners who have thus far failed to get a license for their dog are haled before Squire Chorpennig and assessed the customary $5 fine and costs, $8.50 in all, in addition to the regular dog tax. If they want to escape the tax now and hereafter Fido must be summarily dispatched.

More than 25 Woodland dog owners were impounded for a day by Boyer, an equal number from Curwensville developed hydrophobia symptoms; 40 or more from Grampian barked their disgust while "coughing up" as stated, and a clean-up of the Surveyor-Karthauss country put the $8.50 muzzle on as many more, leaving three or four more sections to be visited.

Clearfield is on the schedule for Friday and from surface or street indications at least a couple hundred "hot" dog owners ought to be rounded up here when the late "big boss's" namesake goes into action as per schedule.

W. A. Brandt of DuBois was business visitor in Clearfield yesterday.

STAY-AT-HOME ROTES
HAVE QUIET MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Clearfield Rotary Club held at the Hotel Jordan was a particularly exclusive and quiet affair. Exclusively in that it was limited in attendance to but about half the membership as the other half excused to Toronto Sunday last. This exclusiveness also had much to do with the quiet that reigned, especially during the stowing away of the soup, which fact was apparent to and appreciated by the management, as was plain to be seen when regular portions of the consommé were given each diner instead of the spoonful or two allowed by Jordy when he had all the absent soup garglers to contend with. The general make up, quality of the viands, together with the service, were also very much improved over what is grudgingly doled out when Jordy has his thumb on and in things about his "beanery," and it was the general expression that the international convention at Toronto was a good thing and should last much longer than it will.

President Gurney presided at the meeting and all but four of the stay-at-home members were at the meeting. The speaker of the evening, a friend of Rube Nevling, was Prof. Norman C. Hill, of St. Louis, head of Uncle Sam's chemical experts at Indian Head proving grounds during the world war, where all the navy's guns and powders were proved or tested before being put into service.

Prof. Hill chose to talk on smokeless powder, that being a popular subject in view of the recent unaccounted-for powder explosion of accident aboard the U. S. S. Mississippi. He gave a learned, highly interesting and instructive talk in which he defined the difference between black and smokeless powder, describing the constituent parts of each and the manner of their manufacture, while also giving the reason for the far greater power or force of the smokeless over the common and old-fashioned black powder.

He said the chief difference between the two powders was that the black powder detonated or exploded suddenly.

WAR AND HELL BOTH
FOR RHODE ISLAND'S
WARRING SENATORS

Providence, R. I., June 19. (INS).—Senator Arthur Sherman, Republican floor leader, and Senator Harry A. Sanderson, were removed to the Rhode-Island state hospital today in a serious condition, suffering from the effects of what is believed to be chlorine gas. Papers saturated with the gas were discovered beneath the chair of Lieut. Gov. Felix A. Toupin.

The timely discovery of the gas-saturated papers prevented additional casualties among the worried members of the senate and the crowd that jammed the senate chamber. The fumes became so strong that it was impossible to remain in the chamber and the Republicans agreed to an hour's recess in order to clear the room of the gas fumes.

The papers are being held in the governor's office pending chemical analysis. The filibuster is now entering its third day.

Providence, R. I., June 19. (INS).—An attempt to break the Democratic senate filibuster, now entered upon its third day, was frustrated today by the timely discovery of a can of chlorine gas beneath the chair of Lieut. Gov. Felix A. Toupin. As presiding officer of the senate, Lieut. Gov. Toupin is the one man who dares not sleep. If he succumbs to weariness the Republicans would immediately take over control of the body. Four senators were overcome before the obnoxious chemical was discovered. The monotony of the dragging session was relieved by a fist fight in an anteroom between Senator Robert Quinn, Dem., and Jack La Tendre, Republican, in which the latter was knocked to the floor.

Deputy sheriffs and police continued to guard the chamber in an effort to preserve order.

"Hell an' Maria"

Character study of General Charles G. Dawes, selected running mate for President Coolidge, after a hectic finale to the vice presidential race at the Republican convention.

Capital Knows Dawes
In Endless Stories
Of Human Interest

By DONALD EWING
Washington, June 15.—In Washington one hears many little heart-interest stories of Charles G. Dawes that are, perhaps, absolutely unknown in his own home town.

Cabinet officials and doorknobs—all of whom know the Republican vice presidential nominee as "Charley"—have been going each other one better in relating intimate details acquired through association with him on numerous occasions when Washington was the Dawes residence. Not the old "Hell and Maria," the reparations settlement, or the time he swore vehemently at a major general in France, but—

Helps Old Pal.
When "Charley" Dawes was director of the budget with a big office here, a newspaper man wandered in one day for an interview. Hardly a word from Dawes until, in casual conversation, the reporter remarked that "Billy" is time. Then he learned that September 6. "You see, Mrs. Dawes always gets so dispirited on the anniversary that I like to be with her," he told an associate once. "And—I guess I can't quite forget, either."

Of course, the story of the Rufus Fearing Dawes dime hotel on Chicago's Westside is well known. Named for his son, it is, and a down-and-out can get food and lodging for a dime—or for nothing, if that's all he has. Dawes finances it but few know that he finances another hotel for Waterville, Me., June 18.—Half a million dollars figured in the settlement of the divorce of Mary Clark Kling, of New York and Charles P. Kling, of Augusta. Kling received $580,000 under the settlement. Witnesses testified Kling was often absent from home and on several occasions abused his wife. Mrs. Kling is the daughter of former United States Senator William A. Clark, Montana "Copper King." Kling was not present at the trial.

easy—but under pledge never to tell Billy, or anyone else, where the money came from. "Billy" is dead now, so don't blame the reporter too much for telling the secret.

Then, September 6 of a certain year a friend dropped into Dawes' office for a business talk.

"Sorry I can't see you today," said Dawes. "I'm just straightening out some emergency matters, then I'm going home. I never do business on September 6."

Down And Out's Friend
The friend never knew for a long time the anniversary of the drowning in Lake Geneva, Wis., of Dawes' only son—Rufus Fearing Dawes. That was in 1912.

"You see, Mrs. Dawes always gets so dispirited on the anniversary that I like to be with her," he told an associate once. "And—I guess I can't quite forget, either."

Of course, the story of the Rufus Fearing Dawes dime hotel on Chicago's Westside is well known. Named for his son, it is, and a down-and-out can get food and lodging for a dime—or for nothing, if that's all he has. Dawes finances it but few know that he finances another hotel for Ridgway, June 19. (INS).—Plans are being completed for Ridgway's centennial celebration to be observed July 3, 4 and 5.

The committee in charge has issued a call for a team of oxen, but so far they have been unable to locate any. No one in the vicinity of Ridgway owns any oxen, yet the committee claims the celebration depicting Ridgway in 1824 would not be complete without the oxen.

So, the search continues.

SHOOK HANDS WITH
DEATH A COUPLE OF
TIMES IN LONG FALL

Dayton, O., June 19 (INS).—Lieutenant John A. MacReady shook hands with death late last night and got away with it.

He was piloting an air service ship from Columbus to Dayton and when directly over the center of Dayton heading for McCook field his motor cut off and began a long slide to the edge of the city. When he reached an open space he stepped off and from his lofty perch in the parachute saw the airplane go hurtling to the ground, heard the crash and saw the big explosion which occurred when the gas tank let go.

MacReady continued to drop easily toward the ground and landed on the brink of a ravine. He stumbled in the darkness and began falling. The parachute caught in a tree and there MacReady hung. He yelled for help and some men living nearby cut him down.

MacReady was up five thousand feet when the motor cut off and 2500 feet when he stepped off into space.

The plane crashed in a field near a cemetery just east of the city. It was a total wreck.

Had the plane fallen in the city the chances are there would have been a terrible disaster.

The ship is a big De Havilland and was in regular service on the airways.

One Man Killed And Two
Injured In Gambler's War

Chicago, June 19. (INS).—One man was killed, two others were seriously injured and several persons narrowly escaped injury here today when a bomb was exploded in a restaurant conducted by Patrick O'Malley, Democratic leader, just outside the loop district.

The explosion rocked the building and created a panic in the Polk street station nearby.

A gamblers' war is believed by police to have been responsible for the bombing.

The dead man was George Swan, an employee. He was blown into the street by the force of the blast and died while being taken to a hospital. The injured are: Richard Richardson, and George Martin, employees.

COUNTY DETECTIVE
DYNAMITE VICTIM

New Castle, Pa., June 19. (INS).—The home of County Detective J. M. Dunlap was dynamited here early today, the blast wrecking the rear end of the house. Dunlap, his wife, and their three-year-old son were sleeping in a front room, and were uninjured.

Two adjoining houses were also damaged, and numerous windows broken in the neighborhood. Police believe the explosion was set off by dry law violators prosecuted by Dunlap.

American Murdered
By Chinese Bandits

Shanghai, June 19. (INS).—A radiogram from the British gunboat Cockchafer today confirmed that E. C. Hawley, an American business man, has been murdered by Chinese at Wanshien, province of Sze-Chwan. Hawley's body is on board the gunboat.

Hawley was killed by Chinese junk men who were agitating against steamboats using the river at Wanshien.

GREAT, GREAT, GRANDAD
OF LINCOLN HAD SLAVES

Reading, Pa., June 19 (INS).—Records recently brought to life here show that Mordca Lincoln, great-grandfather of Abraham Lincoln, owned slaves when he lived in Exeter near here.

In 1790 he had two slaves, Will and John, which Berks county court archives show were valued at 131 pounds, 13 shillings. There is still standing a small stone outkitchen at the Lincoln homestead at Exeter which is believed to have served as the slaves' quarters.

Girl Inmate Started
Fire In Which 24 Died

Los Angeles, June 18.—Because she wanted the girl inmates of the Hope development school at Playa Del Rey, near here, to be free, so "they could have a good time like other girls," one of the inmates, 14 years old, set fire to the building May 31, which resulted in the loss of 24 lives.

This announcement was made by District Attorney Asa Keyes today. The girl was a former inmate of the home, a school for subnormal children and came to the office voluntarily with the announcement that she "had some thing to say," Keyes said.

"Her name is Josephine Bertholme and she now is an inmate of the juvenile hall here," Keyes said.

The girl said she touched a match to a pile of kindling wood in the basement, Keyes announced.

"I didn't like the school and I decided to burn it down so all the girls could go home," the girl's statement read, it was announced. "I didn't mean to kill anybody. I just wanted all the girls to be free so they could have a good time like other girls."

DETROIT MINISTER
FINDS WAYWARD SON

Laporte, Ind., June 19. (INS).—Rev. George Ristaro, of Detroit, found his son here today—under sentence to serve 10 to 20 years in the state penitentiary following conviction of robberies in Gary. George Jr., who is 17, was believed by his father to be attending school in Chicago.

William Strasser, said to be a member of a wealthy Detroit family also was sentenced with Ristaro.

The Detroit clergyman who came here when he heard his son was in trouble, said he would appeal to Gov. Branch for clemency. His son, he said, was being educated for the ministry.

STILLMAN CASE ECHO
ASSAILS PUBLIC EAR

White Plains, N. Y., June 18 (INS).—James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, is paying Mrs. Anne U. Stillman $7,500 a month alimony, it was revealed today in a court action filed in connection with the famous Stillman divorce suit.

Mrs. Stillman asked that the husband be directed to pay her $20,000 counsel fees to combat his appeal from a recent decision of the court of appeals in effect denying Stillman a divorce and establishing the legitimacy of Guy Stillman, her youngest child.

Stillman's counsel opposed the motion, declaring that the wife should be able to pay her attorneys from the $7,500 monthly alimony he said the former banker was paying her.

Justice Morschauer reserved decision.

NATIONAL OFFICERS
IN CHARGE IN W. VA.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 19. (INS).—In an official circular, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today announced that the autonomy of district No. 17, West Virginia, had been suspended, and that charge of the district's affairs had been assumed by the international union.

Strikes are now in effect in West Virginia, where operators failed to accept the Jacksonville wage agreement. Lewis' manifesto said, and added that those strikes would be prosecuted until settlements are reached on the Jacksonville basis.

The declaration of policy in the official statement was regarded at headquarters of the union as being notice that no wage reductions will be permitted anywhere.

Morgantown, W. Va., June 19. (INS).—Several hundred shots were fired near here early today in a gun battle between striking coal miners and mine guards. There were no casualties.

Approximately 300 miners are on strike. Rumors of trouble have been rife in the miners' camp for several days, but it has not been definitely determined what precipitated today's fighting.

BATTLE STEAMS UP

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

New York, June 19.—The preliminary skirmishing and feinting that always precedes a real political convention gave way today to the deadly seriousness of give-and-take fight for delegates as the principal features of Democratic party poured into New York for next week's historical battle in the Garden.

Argument over the two thirds rule, the unit rule and kindred matters was relegated to second place about the crowded hotel lobbies. The two leading contenders—William U. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith—were in personal charge of their respective camps and directing the count of noses.

There are approximately 250 delegates in the convention whose course is uncertain after the complimentary balloting is out of the way and it is toward these delegates that both the McAdoo and Smith camps are casting covetous eyes.

As a result of missionary work already accomplished the Smith forces raised their estimate today of the strength the Governor will poll within the first half dozen ballots.

They now figure in excess of 400 delegates will be in the Smith column by the fifth ballot. Where to get the 332 more necessary to make two thirds is a tough problem.

The Smith position, however, is but little harder than that confronting the McAdoo managers. Assured of approximately 450 votes on early ballots, with possible accessions up to 800 on succeeding ballots, the anti-McAdoo forces are inclined to ask where Mr. McAdoo is going from there. They answer their own question by asserting "nowhere."

"Mr. McAdoo will be nominated by the tenth ballot, if not before," asserted Colonel Thomas B. Love, of Tampa, one of the McAdoo managers. He did not explain, however, where the delegates are to be found.

"There will be no nominee on the tenth ballot and probably for a good while thereafter," said George E. Brennan, the Illinois "Boss," with a certain grim smile that betokened confidence in his own arithmetic.

Virtually all of the leaders on the McAdoo tent were inclined to agree with the pudgy Chicago leader. They frankly look to see the forty-four ballots at San Francisco and the 46 at Baltimore outstripped in the garden next week.

Brennan furthermore allowed it would be a "long convention" and in this, too, he found himself in agreement with most of those not attached to the McAdoo standard.

Meanwhile the Underwood managers are laying back and saying but little except that after McAdoo and Smith have finished their gory work of "murdering" each other the convention will have to go some place and they are hopeful it will be toward Alabama.

But the hopes expressed by the Underwood contingent were echoed by the supporters of every other dark horse in the Democratic stable—John W. Davis of West Virginia; Senator Samuel M. Ralston, of Indiana; Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas; (Continued on Page Four.)

EVERYONE IS DOING IT

Mount Carmel, Pa., June 19. (INS).—Three generations of one family were displaying newly bobbed hair here today.

They all had their trunks cut off at the same barber shop at the same time.

PLEASANT WEATHER HEADING OUR WAY SAYS FORECASTER

We Have Entered First
Stretch of "Back To Normalcy" As To the Weather.

ICEBERGS BLAMED

By ROLAND KREBS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1924, International News Service.)
Washington, June 18.—If every one will just sit tight and be patient, we soon will be enjoying pleasant, normal weather all over the United States.

The promise came today from Chas. L. Mitchell, United States weather forecaster, when asked if the present unusual conditions presaged permanent new habits on the part of the weather, with perhaps a mix up of the seasons.

From all observations, Mitchell said the worst of the atmospheric anarchy is over, unless unexpected phenomena hob up the United States may be considered right now as having entered the first stretch of the return to normal weather.

"Is there anything singular about the weather we have been having?" Mitchell was asked. "If there is, what is the cause?"

"The United States has been experiencing very uncommon weather he explained. "East of the Rocky Mountains the spring and summer temperatures were unseasonably low and there were heavy rains. Crops as a result were from two to three weeks late. West of the Rocky Mountains it was warmer than customary with an absence of rain.

"That still is true in the southwest. Temperatures of 100 have been reported nearly every day from southwest Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and other southern and western areas."

The cool and wet weather, Mitchell explained, may be traced directly to the iceberg zone around New Foundland and the Grand Banks.

Ordinarily, he continued, ice bergs start south in early spring and chill

the Atlantic waters. But, for reasons as yet undetermined, the ice bergs decided to spend this season at home.

"Two coast guard cutters making observations for us" said the forecaster, "reported a notable absence of bergs. Because of this, the temperature of the water was several degrees above normal. That brought about a corresponding warmth in the air."

From this you have the incongruity of New Foundland enjoying warm pleasant weather while the United States, farther south is chilly. The relationship is simple. Warm air and low atmospheric pressure go together. Consequently, the pressure about New Foundland is low just now.

"When the pressure is low the air currents that swirl about it move in a direction opposite to that followed by the hands of a clock. Therefore, they have been bringing cold air down from the north west in a big circular sweep that would go, for example, from Montana down as far as Tennessee.

"Were the pressure high, the currents would be moving clockwise. Then warm air from the southeast would be swept up into that territory now feeling the breath of the northwest."

"The northwest-to-southeast sweep has permitted a series of rain-storms that otherwise would be heeded up in the extreme northwest to roam around over the north and central United States. That is, it has permitted disturbances which cause these showers to come farther south."

MILK BECOMES POPULAR AS AMERICAN BEVERAGE

Chicago, June 18. (INS.)—America is becoming a nation of milk drinkers. A survey just completed by the National Association of Ice Industries shows that consumption of fluid milk and cream has had a phenomenal rise.

"This is disclosed in reports of Boards of Health in all cities and towns," the association declares. "It is also confirmed by latest statistics of the Federal Department of Agriculture, which show that the average consumption in farm and city homes last year was fifty-three gallons, compared with fifty gallons the year before and forty-nine gallons in 1921. Last year the average daily consumption for each person was 1.16 pints."

"Surveys have shown carelessness in handling milk in many households. Milk is frequently left standing in a warm room or placed in a window box. Hence bacteria quickly multiply a thousand fold. Milk should be kept clean and cool. Old milk and new should be kept separate. Spoiled, unclean milk means sick babies and children."

"Increased consumption of milk not only means prosperity for the dairy farmer, but proves that the nation generally is awakening to the value of milk in the everyday diet."

MANY WANT TO BE PENN STATE FRESHMEN

State College, Pa., June 19.—Applications for admission to the next freshman class at the Pennsylvania State College are pouring in at the office of the college registrar now that most of the high schools of the state have had their graduations. The class next year has been limited to 1000, and the bulk of the admissions will be made beginning about July 1 when it is felt that all applications will be in the hands of the registrar.

Regardless of the time at which an application for admission is filed, each will receive full and equal consideration, according to the college registrar W. S. Hoffman. When there are more applicants than can be accommodated in a particular course, the scholastic record of the applicant will determine the admission. Applicants who stood in the upper one-third of their high school classes will be admitted first; then the middle third, and if there is room for more students in the courses, other promising

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good for me. I had cramps and very bad pains. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I felt. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all I do in summer, but in winter I work in a factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."

BRINGING UP FATHER

AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Some one has discovered that 147 years ago the town of Worcester, Mass., had a firm of "Dawes & Coolidge, Grocers," and the claim is made that it was a direct ancestor of the present Dawes, and at least an indirect ancestor of the present Coolidge, who stepped in 1924 as a partnership destined to be reaffirmed in 1924.

The unseasonal weather of the present spring has started the tongues of "weather makers" to wagging the country over as never before, and every last one of them has a different explanation to give for it. One old fellow, a learned scientist, who has been "star gazing" for many years and holds a whole sheaf of degrees from our colleges, solemnly asserts that the sun has split in two, and we happen to be riding along in the crack between the two heavenly heat producers; hence the extreme chilliness.

Prof. Henry J. Cox of the United States Weather Bureau at Chicago said that the sun is not at all hot, and that the weather is "off." But they have different reasons.

It's a series of "smoke screens" on the sun, Prof. Cox hints—in other words, sun spots. These spots, in reality enormous swirling storms of gas and flames, cast up a haze which obscures the sun's rays and thus lowers radiation.

"These spot disturbances follow a cycle and reach a crest at a stated interval, usually about 11 years," said Prof. Cox. "Though some parts of the sun are actually hotter during this period, radiation is lowered and bad weather may conceivably result."

First, Prof. Cox insisted that the sun is much more about it than he did. Then he proceeded with his theory.

It has been proved to the satisfaction of scientists that the sun's radiation at present is lower than normal. The Smithsonian Institution reports from its two observation stations, one in Chile and one in Arizona, that the present radiation is from 1 to 3 per cent under par.

"This has occurred for several months past and is not unusual. It does not mean that the sun is 'cooling off." Solar radiation progresses in a regular rhythmic cycle, reaching climax every 11 years. At present, we are in the middle of one of the periods of depression.

About everything is wrong in this old world of ours, in fact there is nothing much right but ourselves. For instance, nobody has a lot of money except those fellows who don't need it or never spend any. Those who have whiskey now have too darn much, while those who want some can't get any. This was demonstrated at the Cleveland convention when, one of the New York reporters said, the crowd cheered Andy Mellon for ten minutes and he was called to the stage that they might get a glimpse of the man who owned more whiskey than any other man in the world.

That is not all, by a long shot. One of those upsetting things which show the "universal" uneven trend occurred right here in Clearfield yesterday afternoon. Right over on Turnpike avenue, to be exact, if you are after detail. It happened this way. One of our young men, who "has a way with wimmin," picked up a "new flame" the other day, and appeared to be so much smitten with the new love and devoted so much time to her that he was forced to turn a more or less chilly shoulder to an old, tried and true friend. As a result, the new flame was cast aside for the old one, and the old one did make the mistake of not being a bit more understanding. The new flame, who was a bit of a "chick," threw herself from the sidewalk to the street in front of the car and asked the philanderer to steam the old boat over her as she wanted to die and end it all. The "chicken flake" was too "chicken hearted" to do so and stopping his car just in the nick of time to avert a catastrophe, he attempted to expostulate. Did he ever try to argue with a jealous woman? Did he, now?

Well, it ended with the second lady hopping into the car with the newest flame and when the fellow attempted to dislodge her, the late, love-sick damsel drew a bottle of lye from her pocket and crying that she would end it all by a draft of the fiery liquid, attempted to make good her threat, but a blow from the gentleman's arm knocked the bottle from her hand and the contents scattered over car and occupants. Hell, hath no fury like a woman scorned, they

There seems to be a commercial crime wave, too. That is, crimes committed primarily against merchants and bankers, by wrongful use of business methods.

The district attorney of New York says that the nation is defrauded of perhaps $1,750,000,000 a year by persons obtaining property or money by false financial statements, false proofs of loss to insurance companies and false statements in connection with the sale of spurious securities.

This immense loss, though most of it may be incurred directly by business men, is nevertheless passed around to everybody. It results in lower dividends, higher rates for insurance, higher rent, higher prices for services and commodities. It comes out of the pockets of the entire public. The entire public, therefore, has an interest in stopping such crime just as much as it has in stopping bank robberies and house burglaries.

The rate of convictions for such offenses, however, is very low, because they are usually involved in business technicalities and a mass of figures, so that juries become confused. It is harder to make a normal citizen feel the criminality of a purely financial transaction than of a crime of violence, although the effect may be equally bad.

There is need, therefore, of more careful and systematic prosecution of such cases. The National Association of Credit Men is performing a valuable service in laying plans and seeking a fund for the systematic prosecution of commercial crimes.

SPLEEN REMOVAL

Now the surgeons are after the spleen. Dr. William J. Mayo suggests that removal of that organ may become more common than removal of the appendix. "The chronically enlarged spleen," he explains, "must be regarded as a menace, and it rests with the physician to show why it should not be removed."

The spleen's job, or at least one of its jobs, is to act as scavenger of the blood stream, destroying deteriorated blood cells. When it grows too large, it seems to become unduly enthusiastic about its work and goes ahead destroying blood cells, bad and good alike, with such zest that it decimates the red corpuscles, producing a chronic anemia which may cause death.

"Out with the spleen!" may be a good surgical slogan, but where is this sort of thing to end? A layman wonders whether, when this troublesome organ is out, any of the remaining organs can substitute for it satisfactorily.

The doctors are certainly getting to be very free with human organs and glands, anyhow, amputating them and inserting them and moving them about in a way that must be rather alarming to Mother Nature. In another generation or two, they may have worked out a complete system of standard human parts, kept in storage at all hospitals, for making any necessary physical repairs or, indeed, assembling an entirely new body on the flimsy plan.

Progress Editorials for Women

NOT THE ONLY JUGGLER

By FLORENCE DAVIES

Found, the greatest woman juggler in the world.

A New York reviewer claims that she is in New York City performing remarkable feats at the Hippodrome. She is Elly, a handsome young girl who has mastered the ancient art of doing many things at the same time, with her two strong firm delicate hands.

Elly explains why women jugglers are rare.

"Women," says Elly, "have not cultivated the habits of concentration. Juggling is not a matter of strength. The requirements most necessary are concentration, mental, muscular and nervous concentration, upon the feats attempted."

Whereupon, Elly points out that because women have never learned this difficult feat, women jugglers are few.

But Elly evidently never stayed in the kitchen while her mother served up a meal.

Talk about concentration upon three or four things at once. Why, no oriental wonder worker ever did a feat of keeping seven plates whirling in the air at the same moment, faster than Elly's mother (or perhaps it was her aunt who happened to be the perfect housekeeper in the family) used to do when she served a four-course dinner at the appointed hour, with all the things hot, all the cold things cold and all the last minute things done, at the right time.

When it comes to concentration on many things at once, no juggler has much on every day, garden variety of cook, while the average American wife and homemaker has a good many miles of lead of any platform performer ever head-lined on the program.

Perhaps you know one of these jugglers when three or four of you went out to see her the other Sunday afternoon she met you at the gate radiant and smiling. She whisked you through her garden to see the flowers she had planted and tended, strolled with apparent leisure across the street to the home of a friend, where there were other gardens, came home again with the assurance and leisure of a woman who had seven servants to attend to the evening meal, disappeared a few minutes, but before you had missed her, opened the dining room doors, where the spiced ham was smoking on the table and the salad was icy cold and crisp, and the coffee was steaming and fragrant, and all with apparent ease.

"Oh its easy," she exclaims "with daughter's help."

But these same daughters have been taught French and piano by the same juggler who strolls in the garden and whisks supper on the table seemingly at the same time. And with all this, there's time for books and a little bridge and chickens, and some sewing, and even the lowly family wash has been known on more than one occasion to disappear into a sea of suds only to emerge white and snowy on a back-yard line, under those same strong competent juggling hands.

"But," you say, "she's unusual." Not so very. Thousands of American women do it every week of their lives and forget to think it a miracle.

And yet Elly thinks she's the world's only juggler. But she's all wrong. She may be clever enough at spinning tops and balancing on her chin, and we take off our hats to her deft hands and steady nerves. But we make just a little lower bow to the efficient American mothers who can't afford help, and who keep both hands and brains moving swiftly to meet the problems of every day living. There comes a time when they are no mere jugglers, but approach the realm of sleight of hand. At least they seem to defy the old axiom that one body can not be in two places at once.

ly, creating all its force behind the projectile in a shell instantly, whereas the smokeless powder was slow burning and therefore developed its force gradually hence its power to throw the shell farther and so much more accurately. To illustrate his point Prof. Hill placed a small portion of black powder on a plate and touched a match to it. The powder flashed, with a piercing detonation. He then lighted a strip of smokeless powder which he held in his hand, and while it burned fiercely he was able to blow it out at will. In closing his extremely interesting talk Prof. Hill apologized for the loud detonation of his black powder and had President Gurney confess he added to that feature of the demonstration by the firing of a blank cartridge at the psychological moment.

MAINS—CONKLIN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Conklin was the scene of a very beautiful wedding on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, when their youngest daughter, Isabel A. Conklin, became the bride of Jesse W. Mains. The home was beautifully decorated with nature's flowers and green. Pink and white was the color scheme. Miss Margaret E. Wyant acted as maid of honor and Raymond L. Conklin, brother of the bride, as best man.

The bridal party stood in the center of the parlor under a floral bell of snow balls. William L. Armstrong, the bride's pastor, officiated and used the beautiful ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The bride was adorned in a gown of white voile, carrying a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor was attired in a lavender voile, wearing a corsage of sweet peas and daisies. Both were crowned with chaplets of white daisies. The groom and best man wore the regulation dress.

Dainty and satisfying refreshments were served after which they left in their automobile, accompanied by the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Reddinger, of Philadelphia, Pa., for their honeymoon trip to Williamsport, Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's mother at 612 N. W. Front street. Well wishes attend them on their journey.

Curwensville's Own Column

Rev. B. H. Conley and family have been on a vacation trip this week ending in the eastern part of the state.

A considerable number of dog owners in Curwensville are now more reluctant with dog law than they were a week ago. One day this week a stevedore visited town and learned that a number of the canine population had not been licensed or are a tag. Tuesday and Wednesday he 30 or 40 men and women went to Curwensville and looked over a lot of $5 and $10, in all amounting about $8.50. Messrs. Orville Johnston and Bob McPherson have started out on a long trip to see part of the world. They expect to visit Buffalo and Pittsburgh on their return.

Miss Jeanette Patterson, a daughter of Alex. Patterson, of Glen Ridge, Pa., is married in Pittsburgh to the son of a Franklin Kenneth.

After a tour to New York and other places, the newly weds will make their home at Orlowtown, Maine. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Walter Fullerton, this place, and is quite well known to the young people who wish to see her in her new home.

Capital Knows Dawe's

down-and-out girls. The same kind of proposition. It's called the Mary Gates Dawes Hotel. Mary Gates Dawes was "Charley's" mother.

And then, a few years ago an impecunious newspaper man who had been acquainted with Dawes for years, dropped in for a social chat one day. He happened to remark that he was opening a newspaper work—going to open a publicity agency. Nothing more was said about that until the reporter started to leave.

"If You Need More" "By the way," casually remarked Dawes, "when a man goes into a new field he generally needs backing, and when he's honest and sincere, he deserves it. Maybe you don't need it, but I just told the cashier to advance you $500 on my security, and if you need more it's there for you."

And, speaking of money, when Dawes opened the Central Trust Company, in 1902, the first day's deposits totaled $5,000,000, a fortune in those days, and the trust imposed is a tribute to the man's magnetism and standing with his fellow men.

Mr. Dawes, also is well known in Washington through frequent residence here. Officials never get tired of telling of the day she broke up an important conference between Dawes and light Government officers. She rushed right into the meeting and laid a package on the table.

Brings Charley's Rubbers "Charley," she said, "it's raining, and I just know you forgot your rubbers again, so I dropped in a store and bought a pair, and here they are. Now don't you move out of this building without putting them on!" It is not recorded whether the instructions were followed.

Dawes—if the Coolidge-Dawes ticket goes over—will be no newcomer to the White House when he visits there. He was that closer to President McKinley than any man in Washington when he was McKinley's comptroller of the currency. He and Mrs. Dawes were in the White House almost daily for social, or business calls. And as director of the budget under Harding, he became an intimate of that President. Every doorkeeper at the White House knows Dawes, and he knows most of them by their first names.

Rail Service Emerges As Issue Of Campaign

Each-Cummins Act Blamed by Those Who Link Troubles of Farmers with Railroads

By H. K. REYNOLDS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 19.—Once the smoke of the national conventions has cleared away, the nation's transportation problem will emerge as one of the issues of the Presidential campaign.

One of the main angles of the problem is the question of freight rates, the farmers and their political representatives declaring that one of the reasons for agricultural distress is the high cost of transportation.

The Each-Cummins Act is blamed chiefly by those who link the troubles of the farmers with the railroad situation. In the first session of the 68th Congress efforts were made by the Republican insurgents, supported by the Democrats, to amend the Each-Cummins Act by abolishing the United States Railroad Labor Board and establishing—or re-establishing—the old plan of voluntary arbitration of railroad labor disputes.

The bill to accomplish this was introduced jointly by Senator Robert B. Howell (R.), of Nebraska, and Representative Allen W. Barkley (D.), of Kentucky. The insurgents in both the Senate and the House managed to get the bill away from the hostile Committee on Interstate Commerce, but consideration of it came to a prompt and spectacular close in the last week of the session when Barkley withdrew the bill and denounced the House for its attitude toward the legislation. Senator Howell's bill in the Senate had the support of Senator Robert M. La Follette, the insurgent Republican leader, but it was impossible to get it considered or anywhere near a vote.

As this railroad bill will be discussed throughout the summer and will be one of the first things brought up in Congress this winter, Senator Howell, at the request of International News Service, has written the following explanation of the provisions of the measure:

Laws Provisions Explained "This bill provides that it shall be the duty of all carriers and their employees to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning employment and to settle all disputes arising out of such agreement. There are two kinds of disputes:

"1. Respecting rate of pay and working conditions. These may be called 'primary disputes.'

"2. Arising out of application of such agreements. These are 'secondary disputes' and may be called 'grievances.'

"For the settling of grievances it is provided that they shall be taken up first in conference between the management and the employees. If an agreement be not arrived at, the grievance may be referred to the local adjustment board provided for in the agreement between the railroad and the employees.

"Suppose that there was a failure of the conference. Then the dispute could be appealed to by a national board of adjustment of fourteen members, seven of whom would represent the railroads and seven the employees. When this board makes a finding, that finding legally binds both parties and thus ends the dispute.

Meditation Is Last Resort

"Should the adjustment board fail to agree because of a tie vote, then the board of conciliation and mediation, composed of five members appointed by the President, steps in and attempts to adjust the matter. If necessary, it urges arbitration by the board consisting of three members—one to be appointed by the railroad, one by the employees and the third by the two so chosen. Should they fail to decide upon the third party, then the board of conciliation and mediation names the umpire.

"A decision of an arbitration board is final and binding. As in the case of a decision of a national board of adjustment, the decision is made a matter of court record with all the force of a court decision.

"In the matter of primary disputes the same course is pursued with this exception: That the next step after conference is mediation, and if unsuccessful then arbitration, the boards of adjustment having nothing whatever to do with the primary disputes."

La Follette Stands Pat On Former Letter

Washington, June 19. (INS.)—Robert M. La Follette, Jr., today formally denied that his father, Senator La Follette, had communicated in any way with the Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention at St. Paul, since his letter of May 26 to Attorney General E. A. Tamm.

Stone Age Copper Mine in Canada.
A copper mine that was worked by miners of the Stone Age has been found on an island near Fort Arthur, Ontario. The shafts or pits were 20 to 30 feet deep in the solid rock, and the tools which evidently were used were black, egg-shaped stones of great hardness.—Compressed Air Magazine

Information For

Income Tax Payers

As numerous corporations are requesting blanks for filing Federal Capital Stock Tax returns for period ending June 30, 1925, the following information has been given out by Collector D. B. Heiner.

Capital Stock Tax returns for the period ending June 30, 1925, are due to be filed during the month of July 1924. Forms 707 and 708 for filing return for the above period under Section 700 of the Revenue Act of 1924, have been revised and it is anticipated that the blanks will be ready for distribution to the taxpayer on or before July 10, 1924. Regulations relating to the administration of capital stock tax are also being revised to conform with the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1924. However, no material changes will be made in the new regulations, and taxpayers may be governed by Regulations 64, until current regulations are available.

As revised Forms 707 will not be ready for distribution in sufficient time to enable corporations, limited partnerships, etc., to file returns during the month of July, 1924, this office has been authorized by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to accept returns without the assertion of penalties for delinquency, if filed on or before September 30, 1924.

Revised Forms 707 will be mailed to every corporation, limited partnership, or association, of which we have record, as soon as received from the Commissioner. Corporations which have not filed capital stock tax returns for prior periods, and which have their principal office in the 23rd District of Pennsylvania, should request blanks for filing returns from this office. Every corporation chartered prior to June 30, 1924, and having its office in the 23rd District of Pennsylvania, regardless of the State or Territory from which it secured its charter, and engaged in business one day prior to June 30, 1924, is subject to capital stock tax return for the period ending June 30, 1925, unless specifically exempted by the Act. The question of exemption is one for determination by the Commissioner.

D. B. HEINER, Collector.

Serious Rioting Is Feared in Tong War
Calceico, Calif., June 19. (INS.)—Although there were no new outbreaks today in Mexico, Lower California, where four Chinese were killed yesterday in a tong war, serious rioting is feared.

Curwensville's Own Column

Yesterday despite the gloomy weather and high wind quite a crowd assembled at Oak Hill cemetery to take part and witness the Memorial services over the dead by Curwensville Lodge No. 486, Knights of Pythias. Some fifty or perhaps moreorthy Knights were in line as the procession ascended the hill leading to the city of the dead. Arriving at the cemetery, a deceased member of the lodge was followed by a male choir, followed by a preliminary ceremony, then a prayer by the Prelate of the lodge, an appropriate solo by D. Doverspike. Then came the ritualistic services which lasted about a half hour, and then a song by the male chorus. Rev. J. Peters, of Glen Richey was introduced who made an eloquent appropriate address, which was related not only by the Knights but by all who were present. As a hard proposition for him to with any degree of satisfaction, high and strong wind which was blowing at the time, carrying his voice to his audience. His discourse the way through was one that long be remembered; his language being clear and not over the head of the youngest. At the close of the service the male choir again sang an appropriate and closing song, after which the crowd dispersed, and returned to their homes and hers remaining to wander through the cemetery will. Had the day been the kind of weather it ought to have been there would have been at least a thousand people present to witness the impressive ceremonies of the Knights of Pythias.

Miss Jeanette Weber, accompanied by her friend, Mr. Harry Franklin, arrived in Curwensville Saturday from Youngstown, Ohio. Miss Weber will remain the balance of the week with her aunt, Miss Lottie Bixler.

Mrs. William Norris died in Philadelphia last Friday night. Her remains will be brought to Curwensville for burial, the funeral to be held from the home of C. O. Norris on Tuesday. Her age was about 68 years, her husband passed away some years ago.

Mrs. Hannah E. Bloom, wife of W. H. Bloom died at Warren, Pa., last Friday evening, aged about 42 years. She was a daughter of Bishop Bloom, this place. Her body was brought to Curwensville today and will be buried in Oak Hill cemetery on Thursday from the Baptist Church, Rev. F. T. Fineout, officiating.

Another severe rain and wind storm passed over this place Saturday night doing a great amount of damage to street and personal property. A crowd of men worked all day Sunday endeavoring to make streets passable. Some of the country roads cannot be used at all until the rocks, logs, etc., are removed.

Mrs. Thomas A. Dearborn and daughter of Manchester, N. H. are visiting at the home of A. Z. Wolf, Sr., her father.

Mr. Joseph Riddle and wife, of Summerville, Ohio, are guests of Mr. S. E. Deering. This worthy couple were burned out root and branch two weeks ago, and lost all of their earthly possessions. They will remain in Curwensville for several months.

The song service at the M. E. church Sunday evening proved to be one of great pleasure for the large assembled congregation. The singing of Mrs. R. R. Kohr, of Harrisburg, a contralto, was something out of the ordinary which Curwensville musicians do not often have a chance to hear and she was listened to with great delight. The large choir also rendered a special program of music. Sunday evening service at the Presbyterian church consisted of a patriotic program at which time a subject of vital importance was presented. There is no borough ordinance against the "fireworks" of a patriotic sermon, the subject of which was "Guarding Against Destruction". The people who attended the Baptist sanctuary Sunday evening certainly had their curiosity satisfied as to that "surprise". It was a platform assemblage, and proved to be an interesting session.

Reputed Landing Place of Ark
The desert of Carthage, in Cyrene, nearly 10,000 feet above sea, contains as many as sixty of varying sizes. According to tradition these were left at the foot of the flood. When the waters subsided, it is said, Noah and his family landed on the Bay de Frigue, on the coast of the district. The ruins prove the truth of the tradition; the peasants declare the was moored when the landing effected.

The Order of the Bath.
No matter how humble the Japanese laborer may be, he regards his evening bath as a sacred duty and as the greatest luxury of the day. By the time the head of the family is home from his labors his wife has the tub and the water ready. In goes the little man first, then his wife, then the children in order of age. Afterwards the family, clad in clean garments, are ready for supper.

Horse and Horse.
It generally happens that the average man has about as much love for his landlady as he has for his wife's tail.

WHAT MAKES A BRICKLAYER

A bricklayer is about the crankiest individual we know of, and we can prove this statement by any bricklayer's wife. No matter how hot a bricklayer is, his dinner is a good thing to look at, and he will eat it with observations are due to a little incident that happened this morning. Lafe Lutzer who is laying brick on the new Progress building, after a hard morning's work was ready to "fight or eat" and when he went to his car to get his dinner pail and it wasn't there he was more ready to fight than to eat. A good dinner at Barrett's restaurant, however, and Lafe had his old time smile.

OUR GIRLS RESOURCEFUL

Clearfield Misses can always be counted on to do the right thing at the right time so that is how a peach happened to serve peach sundaes on Sunday. Yesterday evening a bevy of young ladies happened into one of the popular soda emporiums of town. The place was filled, everybody was hungry and thirsty. Did they sit down and wait? Not all of them. One jumped right up, grabbed an apron and in jig time was taking orders and making deliveries. Her only fear was that it might get into The Progress. Unfortunately one of the "news hounds" was hanging around there at about that time and as he had been served before the inexperienced soda slinger began to compound the orders he lives to tell the story. Ouch!

Will young Casey share that bottle of Orange-Crush with three thirsty kids? Say—they haven't a chance! Try a bottle today, icy cold, and you'll know why!

Here are six reasons why the real Orange-Crush is so utterly delicious:

- (1) The natural fruit of oranges;
- (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes);
- (3) Orange juice;
- (4) Pure carbonated water;
- (5) U. S. Certified food color;
- (6) Pure cane sugar. That's all, My.

Gathering Poison.
As many as 20,000 serpents had to be captured by a single explorer in order to obtain enough venom of this species to make a proper analysis of the poison. Similarly, the examination of bee poison means the capture of 200,000 bees and the isolation of their venomous stings.

WHAT? WASH YOUR HANDS WITH LAUNDRY SOAP?

Many women soak their hands for hours on washday in hot water and strong soap. And taking care of your hands six days a week does little good if you abuse them on the seventh. SPECTACLES & EYEGLASSES

For the difference they make—
select your glasses with care

"WHY, I hardly knew you" is as usual as comments on the weather. But it strikes a big truth! Spectacles and eye-glasses do make a difference in appearance. Whether the change is for good or ill depends upon their agreement with face, costume and occasion.

But the formula for being attractively fitted is quite simple. Ask us about spectacles and eye-glasses for wear at business, at sports and in the evening. Besides good style and comfort, you will thus get absolute accuracy in manufacture, and scientific precision that cannot be challenged.
